THAT'S SOLID |
PUBLIC AWARENESS CAMPAIGN

LAUNCH TIMELINE

Stage 1 of the campaign will launch in February 2026, when schools and career advisors are most active.

The initial focus will be on raising awareness among school leavers, parents, and educators near quarry hubs through:

- Digital and social media channels
- A tailored Schools and Careers Advisor Kit
- Quarry Promotion packs to enable members to share campaign assets locally

This education-first approach builds a strong foundation for the future of the campaign.

EDUCATION PACK

The That's Solid Education Pack has been developed as a practical, classroom-ready resource to support the broader campaign by introducing students, teachers and career advisers to the quarry sector and the diverse career pathways it offers.

It provides a clear overview of what quarries do, why they are essential to local communities, and how the sector offers stable, long-term and locally based employment opportunities.

The pack will combine accessible written content, real career stories and interactive digital resources, including a career quiz, downloadable factsheets and links to local employers.

Together, these elements are designed to support meaningful career conversations, encourage engagement beyond the classroom and help connect students with real-world opportunities in their local communities.

WEBSITE LANDING PAGE

The landing page has been designed as the central digital hub for the That's Solid campaign, bringing together the hero video, individual case studies and key calls to action in one cohesive experience.

The screenshots shown below represent the final page designs, captured ahead of launch.

The full landing page will go live at campaign launch, with all video content, links and interactive elements fully enabled.

At launch, the page will open with a strong hero banner and campaign messaging, followed by the hero video, which introduces the campaign's core themes and sets the context for the individual stories. From there, users are guided through clear sections that explain the role of quarries in communities, highlight career pathways, and showcase real stories from people working across the sector.

The page also includes prominent calls to action, encouraging users to watch the stories, take the career quiz, or find a quarry near them, alongside expandable sections tailored to students, educators, parents and community members. Supporting content introduces the Institute of Quarrying Australia and invites users to stay connected through ongoing updates and social channels.

Together, the landing page acts as a storytelling platform, education resource and engagement tool, designed to support the broader That's Solid campaign and drive meaningful interaction once live.

FIND A QUARRY NEAR YOU

FIRST OFF, WHAT EXACTLY IS A QUARRY?

Quarries are where essential materials like rock, sand, and gravel are sourced - the building blocks for homes, schools, hospitals, roads, and key infrastructure projects.

But quarries are more than sites of extraction. They're part of the fabric of local communities, supporting thousands of jobs, investing in regional economies, providing the vital material for new homes and keeping Australia growing.

Quarries are active partners in community growth, helping shape the places we live and work.

They are also significant employers across Australia, providing on-the-job training, mentoring and opportunities to live local while developing diverse, and rewarding globally recognised careers.

CAREERS AND COMMUNITY

Quarries offer more than solid jobs; they offer solid futures and stronger communities.

Whether you're a student, jobseeker, educator, parent, or community member, there's a place for you in the quarry sector.

- For jobseekers and students: Explore paid training, nationally recognised qualifications, and career growth from entry-level to leadership. And you don't need to leave the community you live in.
- For communities: Discover how quarries support the development of your community, sponsor events, and invest in key infrastructure across Australia.
- For educators and parents: Access tailored resources to help young people explore opportunities to have meaningful career paths and understand the sector's impact on their region.
- For sector members: Connect with schools, offer placements, and showcase opportunities that build both careers and communities.

NOT SURE WHICH QUARRYING CAREER WOULD SUIT YOU?

Take our short, engaging quiz to explore potential roles and discover how your interests could help shape your community and career.
